The Group's Anti-Slavery Policy

The Cohort plc Anti-Slavery Policy (the Policy) reiterates the ethical conduct already expected of the Group and sets out measures that the subsidiaries must take to ensure that slavery and human trafficking are not taking place within their businesses and supply chains. The Policy was reviewed and updated in September 2020. The Board has overall responsibility for the Policy and each Managing Director of a trading subsidiary is responsible for compliance with the Policy by their business.

Each trading subsidiary is required to produce an annual modern slavery report to the Board of Cohort plc which includes the steps taken as part of its review of slavery risk in the business and supply chains, a summary of the key risks identified by the risk review, and the actions taken to mitigate those risks together with a statement on how effective the due diligence and risk mitigation steps are in ensuring that slavery and human trafficking is not taking place in the business or its supply chains.

If any doubts are raised during the review as to whether slavery and/or human trafficking exists and the relevant supplier has not provided sufficient evidence to the contrary, the relevant subsidiary shall seek to agree an improvement plan with the supplier. If this is not possible or if the supplier does not comply with the improvement plan, the subsidiary is required, where practicable, to cease placing orders with that supplier within 12 months.

The Group encourages employees to report unethical behaviour and to their line manager or the Company Secretary. The Group also provides a whistleblowing service hosted by SafeCall which provides a channel for confidential and anonymous reporting in more than 68 languages.

The Group's due diligence process

In accordance with the Policy, each subsidiary has produced an annual report for the Cohort plc Board of Directors in respect of the year ended 30 April 2023.

The reports confirm that the subsidiaries have undertaken proportionate due diligence during the financial year. This has involved identifying the suppliers we consider to be 'high risk' according to annual spend, sector risk, and country risk. If a supplier is identified as high risk, further due diligence will be undertaken and the supplier will be required to confirm in writing which steps it has taken – or will take – to ensure that it is not involved with slavery and/or human trafficking and that it fully complies with the MSA. In the past financial year, no suppliers were identified as 'high risk'.

How does the Group manage its risk?

Following the due diligence process, each subsidiary has confirmed that no key risks have been identified. Therefore, risk mitigation is not currently required although this will continue to be monitored by the Group.

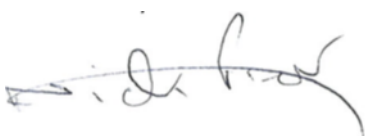

Does the Group provide training for its employees?

Training will be provided during the current financial year at the subsidiary level to all employees whose role requires them to have an understanding of the risks of modern slavery and human trafficking in our supply chains. Further advice and guidance is available from our Company Secretarial team.

Is the Group's approach to anti-slavery effective?

Taking into account the feedback from each subsidiary, the Cohort plc Board of Director's considers the Group's approach to anti-slavery to be proportionate, robust, and effective.

Approved by the Cohort plc Board of Directors on 12 July 2023.
